A PUBLICATION OF JEFFERSON PARK UNITED NEIGHBORS

Community Cabinet with Mayor Hancock

- Trouble finding parking?
- Snow isn't getting removed?
- Where is our new playground?
- Why are there so many ruts in our streets?

Denver Mayor Michael B. Hancock and City Department Heads will be in Jefferson Park and would like to hear from you on Saturday, February 7 from 9-11 a.m. at the PPA Event Center at 21st and Decatur.

This is a great opportunity to discuss issues and get them resolved. They will even provide FREE BREAKFAST!

Each quarter, the Mayor, his cabinet and city department heads come together to provide first-hand accounts of what's happening in our community and around the city. Following the meeting, all attendees will have the unique opportunity to engage in a one-on-one dialogue with the Mayor and his leadership team.

JPUN strongly encourages all neighbors to attend. The more voices we have, the more issues will get resolved. Attending could help fix a problem you live with for 365 days out of the year!

JPUN will have a booth at the event.

Please stop in to register and we can assist you with:

- Who to talk to from the city
- Combine similar issues your neighbors may also be experiencing so they stand a greater chance of effectively being resolved.

All those who register at the JPUN booth will be entered into a raffle to win Bronco's merchandise.

A list of city departments and their directors who are expected to attend this event can be found at www.JPUN.org.

Please Voice Your Concerns In Our Survey At:

www.surveymonkey.com/s/B7MFBNX or scan this QR Code:

The survey will allow us to compile a list of all of the issues ahead of time, and recognize any areas of serious concerns and how we can work to get them resolved.

- WHERE: PPA Event Center, 2105 Decatur St.
- WHEN: Saturday, February 7
- TIME: 9-11 a.m.
- FREE continental breakfast!

Jefferson Park
Pet of the Month

Ruby Rouge Pamplemousse (Red Grapefruit) is a six-month-old sable/brindle French bulldog (AKA a "Frenchie"). Although born a country girl in the small southern town of Cotopaxi, CO, Ruby longed for the bright lights and excitement of the big city. When she got the chance last November, she moved into her new home with views of Jefferson Park.

Ruby has six siblings. Her father, Gunner, is originally from Hungary and her mom, Cha Cha, lives on the Bonjers Oui Oui Frenchies farm in Cotopaxi.

Ruby's favorite past times include eating leaves (Fall is her favorite season), chewing on sticks, snuggling, burrowing under the covers, and sitting by the fireplace watching two-legged neighbors shoot hoops and play in the snow. She is developing into a good fetching dog and has dreams of catching Frisbees in Jefferson Park with the big dogs one day.

Although shy at first, Ruby loves to play at the park with her four-legged friends Winston and Panda, and is always interested in meeting new canine pals. Despite her small stature, she loves to tussle with bigger dogs and is good at chomping on ears and tails.

Would you like to see your pet featured? Please send a photo and a few tidbits about your favorite pet to jeffparknews@gmail.com or kymandpat@comcast.net. JPUN reserves the right to edit all submissions.

JPUN INVOLVEMENT

Help Wanted!
Writers, Designers
and Editors Needed

Do you like having the inside scoop on what's happening in Jefferson Park?

Do you like reading the Jefferson Park newsletter?

JPUN's Communications Committee is dreaming of "retirement" and pro-actively looking for this year's replacements.

Volunteers are needed to develop monthly newsletter content, coordinate with columnists and advertisers, assign stories, as well as layout the final copy/artwork for delivery to the printer.

Please contact Nicole DeJarnatt at jeffparknews@gmail.com or Kym Foster at kymandpat@comcast.net to learn more about how you or someone you know can help fill these important roles in 2015. Our readers are depending on you.

2785 Speer developer, Lauren Brockman, of Allied Orion Holding was honored at JPUN's January meeting for the difference that he and his company are making in the community. Allied Orion Holding has participated in the Jefferson Park clean-up day for the last seven years, and they have also sponsored the annual Music in the Park series.

To read more about this honor and see photographs of JPUN board members presenting Brockman with the award, check out the full story in the North Denver Tribune at www.northdenvertribune.com.

JEFFERSON SQUARE

A Holiday Affair to Remember

What a difference a year makes. On any given evening, last November, passersby would have found Jefferson Square mainly vacant with the exception of 2914 Coffee and their growing number of regulars. But this year, the cool November evening of the 22nd found store fronts filled with new businesses and the square bustling with neighbors, near and far, taking in the first annual Jefferson Square Holiday Affair.

The free event was coordinated by the merchants on Jefferson Square with participation from businesses throughout Jefferson Park and the support of the Federal Boulevard Business Improvement District. Hundreds turned out to stroll the streets, take in a bit of holiday cheer (and the chance to win some great raffle prizes) for the inaugural event to kick off the season. The air was filled with holiday sounds of carols and holiday smells of hot cocoa, spiced cider, and roasted chestnuts.

"We were blown away by the turn out. It is incredible to see the neighborhood coming to life," says Taylor Swallow from Sarto's. "Plus, it just felt like the holidays. It really got everyone in the holiday spirit." Santa Claus was available for a photo opp at CrossFit Jefferson Park and shoppers could enjoy some eggnog and holiday treats while perusing the American-made men's fashion at Sully & Co. Next door, Jefferson Park Pub served up live music and seasonal libations. Around the corner, Sarto's newly opened Pantry was roasting chestnuts and warming gluwain from their vintage baker's cart. And in perfect style, The Interior had guests in the mood, offering complimentary bubbles and a look at gifts from a local artist. While 2914 Coffee had the perfect coffee-made stocking stuffers and hot chocolate for the kid in all of us.

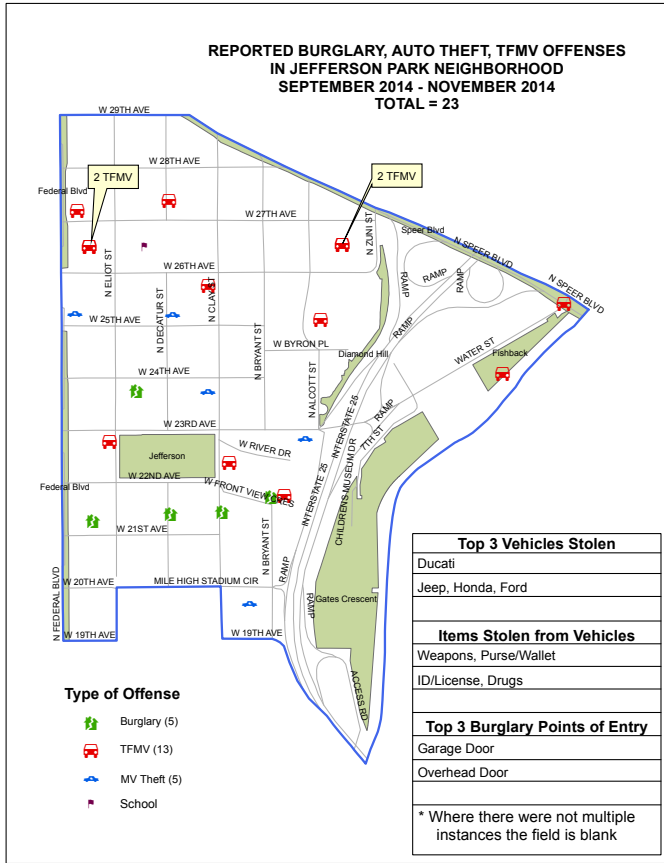

In the spirit of giving, the merchants all donated a portion of their sales from the evening to Brent's place, a charity helping children with cancer and their families. And Sexy Pizza made the extra effort to make sure everyone stays warm this winter, coordinating a coat drive. In addition to the merchants on the square, other local businesses like Adam's Mystery Playhouse, Pinot's Palette, and Chili Verde also donated great prizes for the raffle to help the North High School choir reach their goal to raise enough money to perform at Carnegie Hall in New York.

"It's amazing how collaborative all of the business owners are in Jefferson Park. And how supportive they are of what is going on with the neighborhood. It really creates a unique atmosphere and it shows," says Maria Jakes, coordinator for the Holiday Affair.

"I can't wait for the 2nd Annual!"

Hit-and-Run on Federal

On Sunday, Jan. 25, police responded to a hit-and-run involving a truck and two motorcycles that took place near the intersection of 9th Avenue and Federal Boulevard.

Police say the victim is a 23-year-old motorcyclist who hurt her leg. Two motorcycles were involved, and police are still looking for the other one. The driver of the truck, who also left the scene, was arrested a short time later for DUI. The circumstances of the accident are currently unclear.

Four-Minute Workouts to Jump Start Your Year

Tabatas are great workouts, and one of my favorite types of exercise. They are short, effective, and incredibly hard if you do them correct. And the best part, they only take four minutes to complete!

So what is a Tabata? Tabata is a style of interval training developed by Dr. Izumi Tabata at the National Institute of Fitness and Sports in Tokyo, Japan. He conducted tests on two groups of athletes, comparing moderate intensity training (such as long-distance running) to high-intensity interval training (like sprinting). The results were amazing—not only did the athletes doing high-intensity interval training increase their overall aerobic and anaerobic capacity, their VO2 max, resting metabolic rate, it also helped them burn more fat—resulting in a leaner physique much more quickly than their moderate intensity training counterparts.

How to do Tabata workouts: Tabata workouts require you to go all out for 20 seconds and then rest for 10 seconds. You'll repeat this cycle eight times to complete the workout. You can "Google" or search for a Tabata interval timer app to help keep track of time. And trust me on this one—if you think that you can do four minutes of exercise in your sleep, you're underestimating how hard Tabata workouts really are (if you do them right, that is).

TABATA WORKOUTS YOU CAN DO ANYWHERE

Ready to get started? Here are three awesome tabata workouts you can do at home, at work, outside, at a gym, or while traveling:

1. Push-ups

To do: set your timer for eight rounds of 20 and 10 seconds. Then complete as many push-ups as you can during the 20 second intervals and rest during the 10 second intervals.

2. Air Squats

To do: set your timer for eight rounds of 20 and 10 seconds. Then complete as many air squats as you can during the 20 second intervals and rest during the 10 second intervals.

3. Alternate between burpees and sit-ups

This one's extra fun: you'll be doing two different exercises, and switching each interval. You'll start by doing 20 seconds of burpees, rest, and then do 20 seconds of sit-ups. Continue until you've completed all eight rounds.

Get creative with your Tabatas—you can do them with any type of exercise. You can also pair more than one Tabata together. Take a minute break in between Tabatas to reset your timer and grab some water. Just remember that to make them effective, you have to work as hard as you can!

B-Cycle Announces Price Changes

Effective January 1, Denver B-cycle increased membership rates. The new rate structure follows:

- Annual Membership price increase from $80 to $90
- 24-hour Membership price increase from $8 to $9
- Annual Plus Memberships (formerly Centennial Memberships) continues to cost $100 and comes with unlimited 60 minute trips.

INC Transportation Committee Updates

Denver's Inter Neighborhood Cooperation (INC) Transportation Committee discusses issues that are relatable to Jefferson Park residents given our close proximity to downtown and our multimodal options that are available.

Below is a summary from a meeting on January 8th.

For further details, please go to JPUN.org:

Denver Public Works Transportation Philosophy,
2014 Accomplishments and 2015 Programs and Plans –
Jose Cornejo, Executive Director

In 2015, the major transportation goals are to increase safety for pedestrians, bikes and cars, to decrease congestion, and to improve air quality. Public Works recognizes that reducing congestion by increasing person-trip capacity must involve strategic investments in multimodal facilities.

Projects in 2015 include:

- Improvements along major corridors including Brighton and Broadway boulevards.
- Colorado Center Bike/Pedestrian Bridge over I-25 near Evans Ave, connecting the light rail station with adjacent neighborhoods, the bicycle network, and employment/retail centers.
- 35th-36th Street Pedestrian Bridge connecting River North over the railroad tracks to Curtis Park, Cole, and RTD's 38th/Blake commuter rail station which will open in 2016.
- Inca Street multi-use path & 38th Avenue underpass improvements for pedestrian and bicycle connectivity to the RTD 41st/Fox commuter rail station.
- Protected bike lane construction on Lawrence Street from the Auraria Campus to Broadway, and on Arapahoe Street from the Ballpark neighborhood to the Auraria Campus.
- Annual work program will pave 25 alleys and 360 lane-miles of streets, bolstered by 2A funding and with a focus on neighborhood streets in poor condition.
- New and updated plans and programs:
 - Begin work on Denver Moves: Pedestrians and Trails, an update to the 2004 Pedestrian Master Plan that will have a greater operational orientation with a network map and strategy for how to fund and maintain pedestrian infrastructure over time.
 - Begin work on Denver Moves: Transit, a city-wide transit vision to help support Denver's multimodal goals. Key question is to determine what Denver's role should be, while developing a framework to understand high transportation demand in the city, and understanding where development is occurring and is expected, in order to provide a way to organize our goals to keep up with the pace of transportation needs.
 - Expand the Area Management Parking Plan program into more neighborhoods struggling with competition for limited on-street parking.
 - Implement a new traffic safety software tool called Vision Zero Suite to provide predictive, diagnostic, and analytic tools for solving road safety problems.

Bridj: Private, On-Demand, Dynamic Express Bus Service – Councilwoman Mary Beth Susman

Councilwoman Mary Beth Susman has been looking into the possibilities presented by private mass transit service. With a preponderance of single-occupant vehicles on the roads in Denver, and facing an increasing population, we're reaching capacity on our street infrastructure. Shared-ride options could help reduce congestion, while reducing total cost for riders.

Bridj is a startup service operating in Boston and Cambridge today. Using clever algorithms and masses of data on where people move to and from, Bridj can identify opportunities for a van or bus "route" to bring people together who are going to and from the same general areas at the same general time, offering express (no intermediate stops) service. Payment is made ahead of time online via a mobile app, guaranteeing a seat – no need to carry cash or make change. In Boston, each trip costs more than regular public transportation, but far less than a taxi, Uber or Lyft, at between $4 and $5 per trip. The service does not require any public subsidy.

There are no routes to memorize – you enter your origin and destination, and select the most convenient time to ride. You will be told where to meet the service (no more than a 5-minute walk from your starting point) and where you'll be dropped off (no more than a 5-minute walk from your destination).

Meetings with Bridj, RTD and Councilwoman Susman are in the explorative phase. If there is enough interest from residents of Jefferson Park, Councilwoman Susman could be invited to speak at our general membership meeting. Please contact us through Facebook or email at info@jpun.org.

The next two INC Transportation Committee's meeting will be at 1201 Williams St., 19th Floor on Thurs., March 12 and Thurs., May 14 from 6-8 p.m.
