NEIGHBOR OF THE MONTH JOEL JUDD

Occupation: Lawyer.

Rent or own? Own.

How long have you lived in Jeff Park? I bought my house in 1979.

What is one word to describe our neighborhood? Busy.

Favorite business in Jeff Park: Safeway – living 2 blocks from a supermarket makes it hard to ever move.

Favorite restaurant in Jeff Park: Sarto's.

Hobbies & interests: Food, hiking (urban and back country), skiing, theater.

What is the best part about living in Jeff Park? It's the center of the world.

What is your opinion on all of the development in our neighborhood? Some great stuff is coming down; also some junk. None of the new buildings are as good as the ones we're losing. Most of it is better than the worst.

What is something about you that most people do not know? I used to drive a dump truck.

Would you like to be neighbor of the month or know someone to spotlight? Email us at newsletter@jpun.org

BROOKLYN'S SET TO EXPAND NEAR SPORTS VENUES

Original Story by Burl Rolett of BusinessDen.com

Not for nuttin', but a Denver restaurateur with outposts next to Denver's major sports complexes is looking to expand its real estate a few first downs from Mile High Stadium. The owners of The Original Brooklyn's restaurant are working on a deal to buy nearly an acre of vacant, city-owned land adjacent to the restaurant's property at 2800 Morrison Road for $1.3 million. The proposed sale, presented to city council at last night's meeting, would include 37,000 square feet of land behind Brooklyn's, between its parking lot and the Lakewood Gulch Trail. Co-owner Dave Keefe confirmed he is working on acquiring the property but declined to comment on plans for the land after acquiring it. Brooklyn's sits at the corner of Old West Colfax Avenue and Morrison Road, just south of Mile High Stadium. The restaurant has been open since 1983. Keefe also co-owns a second Brooklyn's restaurant at 901 Auraria Parkway near the Pepsi Center.

A LETTER FROM YOUR NEIGHBOR

2849 W 23rd Ave

Hello, fellow neighbors. My name is Judith and I have lived in the area since 2007. I am a single woman with two jobs, so I haven't had much time to attend many JPUN meetings. After attending my second meeting last week, I wish I would have made more time to get involved in the community. We all need our neighbors, and JPUN did a great job making everyone feel like a community.

I came to the JPUN meeting to voice my opinion and ask for my community's help. On September 13, 2016, Councilman Rafael Espinoza filed an application to designate my house as a historic property against my will and without my permission. If he is successful, it will not only limit what I can do with my own property, but it will create astronomical costs for me in the future. This property is mine. I have worked so very hard to pay for it. It shocks me, and it should shock you too, that with only the signature of one councilman, your life's work can be taken away.

Did you know that three people in Denver County, not just Jefferson Park, along with $875.00 can submit an application to designate your house as historic against your will? More importantly, a single councilperson can also file an application without paying a dime- which to my surprise, Councilman Espinoza did.

After he filed the application to designate my house historic, the Landmark Preservation Commission met October 18th and agreed the City should control my house instead of me. They referred it on to the City Council for a hearing on November 21, 2016. The City continues to hold all of the power, and I have to fight at every turn to preserve basic rights that are afforded to me under the laws of our city, the state, and even the Constitution.

This is where I need your help! Unless I can convince City Council that I should be able to decide what happens to my house, and that each of you do as well, I stand to lose my retirement and the only nest egg that I have. I ask you to join me at the City Council hearing on November 21 and stand up to this abuse of power. Please support not only my property rights, but yours as well. If you are unable to come, I would ask that you contact members of the City Council by email, letter, or phone and let them know that the City cannot take away our property rights without compensation and due process of law.

Now that my email is public record, feel free to contact me at co.judith.battista@gmail.com for the full story or if you would like to attend the meeting on my behalf.

Thank you very much,
Judith Battista

As stated in our October issue, a Landmark Designation application was received as a result of a Certificate of Non-Historic Status application, and was submitted by a party other than the property owner. This type of designation can dramatically affect the property's value and the type of development that can occur.

The views and opinions expressed in this letter are solely that of the author and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of JPUN or its associates.

The property owner spoke to JPUN's November Land Use Committee Meeting and intends to make a presentation at JPUN's November 15th General Membership Meeting. All are welcome to attend this meeting to learn more or share your opinion and concerns.

Letters to the editor disclaimer: JPUN gladly accepts letters to the editor. Please be advised that these letters will be reviewed and published at the discretion of our editor.

Denver Bikram Yoga

2601 W Frontview Crescent Drive, (22nd & Clay)

How long have you been in business? We opened on April 2, 2016.

How many employees are in your company? We have a team of seven.

Why did you choose your Jeff Park location? The building was an adequate size for creating a large spacious yoga room. This studio sits on the west side of I-25, which is ideal for our students that drive here from the North or South side of town.

How can your business benefit the residents of Jefferson Park? The residents of Jefferson Park can walk here to get some high quality Bikram Yoga. All of our staff have been trained by Bikram himself by attending a rigorous 9-week training program at the Bikram's Yoga College of India. We are all qualified to lead this series.

Are there any unusual or unique things about your business that you'd like readers to know about? This is a unique yoga, and although there are plenty of options in Colorado for yoga, there aren't many options for the Bikram style. This is a very specific practice that brings amazing medical benefits to the practitioner. Also, we are here as early as 5:30 am during the week and have evening classes on the weekends.

What do you like most about doing business in Jefferson Park? The accessibility. It's right next to downtown and the accessibility that we have to the highways and other main arteries that can lead you here are simple.

What is the most challenging part about running your business in Jeff Park? Parking. The suburbanites find it difficult to park here, and so do our teachers. You definitely have to have a city mentality; ride your bike, skateboard, public bus, carpool, walk, Uber/Lyft, etc. We also thought we'd have more local clients from the Jefferson Park neighborhood, but we have clients from all over: Boulder, Golden, South Denver, Arvada, Westminster, just to name a few.

What do you think about all the changes going on in Jefferson Park? I grew up in the 5 Points neighborhood of Denver so to see the changes is both good and confusing. I like how it's fine tuning itself as a neighborhood and staying competitive with the Wash Park and LoHi communities, but I'd like to see some preservation of the neighborhood. It's tough to see the locals being displaced by the developers.

What's next for your business? We are reaching out to the community by sitting on different non-profit boards, we are teaming up as professional affiliates with other local businesses in the area that share the same vision of health, healing, and wellness and we continue to attract a diverse group of clients; pro athletes, baby boomers, the injured, broken, etc. This yoga is for everyone!

Tell your business story!

Tell the story of your Jefferson Park business with a Business Banter feature in the JPUN newsletter. To learn more, contact newsletter@jpun.org.

ARAUJO'S RESTAURANT APPROVED FOR LIQUOR LICENSE

JPUN's LUC recently voted to support Araujo's Restaurant's (2900 W. 26th Ave.) application for a liquor license. The City of Denver allows Registered Neighborhood Associations (JPUN) to establish (GNA) Good Neighbor Agreements with businesses in their neighborhood. GNAs are agreements between a business and a neighborhood that address specific issues of concern in a collaborative way. For example, one of the agreements is for the business to refrain from emptying trash during certain hours to protect neighbors being woken by the sound of breaking bottles in the early hours of the morning. JPUN's Land Use Committee worked with Araujo's to establish a GNA.

ABOUT ARAUJO'S RESTAURANT

Araujo's Restaurant has been in the neighborhood for 10 years and has always been managed by family members. Through lots of hard work and dedication they were able to recently purchase their building and feel very blessed with this accomplishment. They've started to make improvements to the business and will be expanding their hours along with serving Margaritas and beer in the coming weeks.

They wish to thank to all of their customers, surrounding business owners, Jeff Park residents and JPUN for their support and for making them feel so welcomed and wanted in the neighborhood.

JPUN is proud to share their success story and wish them all the best.

MEET ME THERE

WITH KELLY DROZ

Our Denver Insider

Kelly is one of those rare Colorado natives. Having grown up in the Sunnyside neighborhood, she's happy to be so close to her roots here in Jefferson Park. She recently graduated from Colorado State University and loves to travel and write. Kelly loves exploring Jefferson Park and the surrounding neighborhoods and can't wait to find new and old treasures to share with her neighbors.

MEET ME AT MACKINZIE'S for wine, cocktails, and yummy snacks. Hardly a month old and this bar has the potential to become one of the best bars in Jefferson Park.

Located at 2240 Clay Street, Mackinzie's is the perfect place to make new friends or reconnect with old ones. The small bar is decorated with pieces and parts from some of Denver's favorites - barstools from the old Gaetano's, a window frame from Root Down, a chalkboard from a Brighton schoolhouse, and an aerial view photo of Denver pre Pepsi Center and Coors Field purchased from an oil and gas company.

Not only are the decorations charming and intimate but the service is amazing as well. You walk in a stranger but you leave a friend. Chad, part owner and bartender, is friendly, easy to talk to, and is passionate about his business. Having been a wine rep since 1996 he knows that everyone tastes wine differently. He doesn't see his job as telling you what you taste is wrong; it's to help you find a wine you absolutely love. Not a huge fan of wine? Mackinzie's also has an ever-changing cocktail menu. Most are made with house-infused liquors. Infusions range from pepper vodka and orange tequila to pineapple rum.

Perhaps the best part about Mackinzie's is that you walk in a stranger, new to the neighborhood maybe, and walk out with a handful of new friends. It has the feel of a bar that has been here for years and has the potential to be a place where you met some of your best friends. It's one of those places that you can go to by yourself without feeling uncomfortable. While this is not exactly the place to pound Fireball shots before a Broncos game, you can hang out with your fellow neighbors, make some new friends, and discover your new favorite wine!

So meet me at Mackenzie's, where we can enjoy a bottle of wine, a few delicious snacks, and some great company!

BALANCING BITS

BY RACHAEL ROSE

How can we achieve balance in our lives? Balance is an ever-changing dynamic, so our health is in a constant state of balance. As we transition from Summer to Fall, and from Fall to Winter, our body's state of balance is changing and the stresses it imposes on our systems can be challenging. We are more likely to get sick during season changes. For some people it is colds and flus, for others the imbalance may be irritability, depression, insomnia, headaches or anxiety.

These are not comfortable symptoms for anyone, and we often turn to something to make us feel better. For the cold/flu person, they may take medicine, for people with the other issues the solution may be sleep medicine, sugar, alcohol, caffeine, social media, shopping, gambling... the list of "medicators" goes on and on. When we are out of balance in our life we are fighting to regain that sense of balance, whether we are conscious of it or not. The key is to be aware of the behaviors we are engaging in to make us "feel better" or to "snap us out of it." If we are present we may make better choices about what we are doing to get us back to a state of balance. I recently completed a 204 hour Forrest Yoga Teacher Training with Ana Forrest, who overcame a history of terrible abuse and addiction to become one of the most respected yogis of our time and an inspiration to thousands. She advocates a Formula for Change.

- 1 Notice when triggers arise and knock you off balance.
- 2 Take 3 deep, full body breaths.
- 3 Congratulate and reward yourself for becoming aware that you got off balance. Maybe your reward is a brisk walk in the park or a nourishing cup of tea.

Our first step in achieving balance is being aware of those imbalances. One of the fun things you can do to work on balance is to stand on one leg and close your eyes. See how different your balance is when you do this. Put all of your weight on one leg, then slowly pick the other foot up off the ground and rest your ankle, calf or thigh. Press the lifted foot into the standing leg, and the standing leg into your foot. This is called a tree pose. Pay attention to how stable or unstable you are during this pose. This is all good work on your balance, as it is dynamically changing every minute, and working on your physical balance in space will help you achieve mental balance in your body. Switch sides and repeat this pose on the opposite leg. I recommend you work on your physical balance for 5 minutes every day. Not only is it fun, but it is good for your body, mind and spirit.

Rachael Rose Kennedy is a Licensed Acupuncturist practicing in the NW Denver Highlands since 2004 and is a Forrest Yoga Teacher. For more information about Rachael and her practice go to FullCircleAcupuncture.com or call (303)480-0080.
